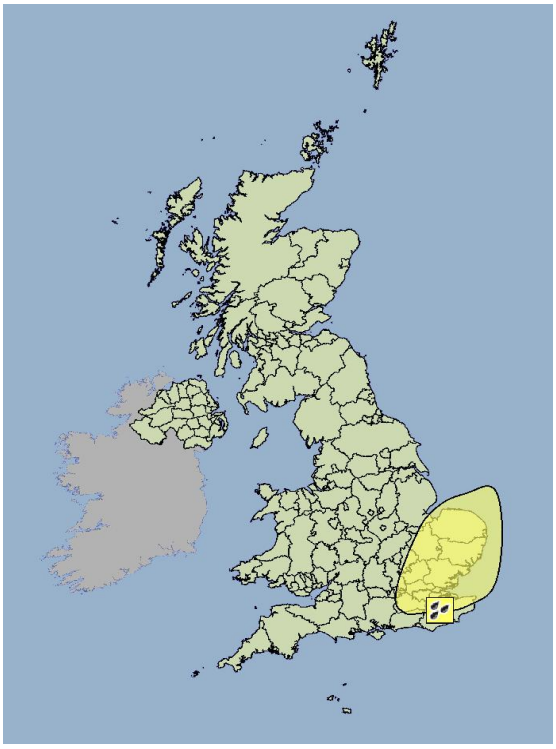
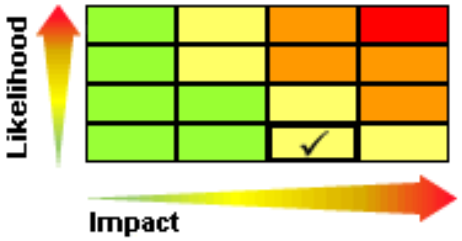
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
Very warm, humid air coming up from France brings the threat of thunderstorms which have the potential to give 25-30 mm of rain in an hour.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Rain

Valid from 13:00 on Fri, 02nd Jun 2017 until 23:00 on Fri, 02nd Jun 2017

There is the risk of torrential downpours on Friday afternoon and evening. Whilst most places will miss the worst, it could lead to localised surface water flooding and difficult driving conditions. Frequent lightning and perhaps hail could be additional hazards.
